The actual effects on these programs of current political activities in the UAR, Iran and Iraq were of special interest. Articles also reported on the changes in Gosplan leadership, a new Soviet Committee for automation, other possible steps in the continuing reorganization of Soviet administration, modifications in the Chinese "Leap Forward", the North Korea economy and developments in the Eastern European collectivization drives and wage/norm reform. Watch Committee support also continued at a high level. Other developments requiring considerable attention were: logistic developments in East Germany which increased Group Soviet Forces Germany readiness; Soviet Engineering Directorate deliveries to China; and the effect on bloc military and economic aid programs of the US-Iran treaty and the UAR-Iraq-Soviet triangle.
2. Deputy Chief, D/A, participated in meetings of the Economic Sub-Committee of the Ad Hoc Intelligence Working Group, convened by the NATO Standing Group, for the preparation of the NATO Standing Group Report 161/12, Report of the Soviet Bloc Strength and Capabilities. Research, Planning and Program Development

9. Open source material recently received combined with existing material have enabled S/TR to estimate for the first time the magnitude of the dependence of the USSR and European Satellites on Free World merchant shipping service for movement of their seaborne foreign trade. The determination of the magnitude of this service represents a "break-through" in intelligence research and will be of considerable value to the US [redacted] intelligence communities. 25X1X7

Discussions have been held with OTR on certain of these. Mrs. [redacted] met with representatives of OSI and NSA to discuss a proposed pilot study which would involve machining certain data possibly common to both the guided missiles and AE fields. OSI is preparing a staff study of this program and will coordinate it with ORR. Mrs. [redacted] and OSI personnel also met with representatives of the [redacted] 25X1A9a 25X1A5a1

Intra Agency Activities

12. The Office of Training is currently presenting a training course for DD/P case officers on the subject of "Scientific and Technical Collection". Much of this course is concerned with the guided missiles field which OTR and most other Agency components associated principally with OSI. Discussions between I/GM and OTR personnel during March have resulted in an improved understanding by OTR of the role of ORR in assessing the production and deployment aspects of the Soviet missile program. As a result, OTR has requested I/GM assistance in this project. I/GM will participate by lecturing and providing materials and suggestions for the course.

Members of I/GM also participated in a training course for OO Contact Specialists on the collection of guided missiles intelligence information and presented briefings on industrial observations and Soviet missile production and deployment indicators.
